

Dr. Lauri Boyer has a Masters in Communications from Denver University in Denver Colorado and a Doctorate in Leadership from Barry University in Miami Florida. While at Barry University she developed and directed the Center for Leadership Communication, to support student and faculty in the development of effective communication skills.

Dr. Lauri Boyer has taught online courses at Kaplan University Graduate MBA/Undergraduate Management, and taught Communication courses at Nova Southeastern University, Broward Community College, and Barry University in South Florida.

Lauri is an Integrative Coach Professional working with individuals on self-care, self-awareness and developing skills that support healthy sustainable relationships. Her coaching incorporates the practices of mindfulness and compassion to increase self-awareness, clarity, and focus, which leads to improved resilience when connecting with others, ultimately providing and overall sense of well-being. Lauri has also supported the Ford Institute in their on-going Coaching Training programs as a mentor and workshop facilitator.