Student Panel bios

This panel will welcome a host of student leaders dedicating their time to work which contributes to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals. The panel will explore the multifaceted role student leaders and the student movement has played to date, and the future role they envision students playing over the next 7 years as we move towards the year 2030. We will delve into the panelists own personal experiences as student leaders, how they came to learn about the SDGs and how they use the SDGs in their work today, and the importance of the student voice in informing and shaping sustainable development. Lastly, the panel will explore how the education can be used as a tool for empowering students to be active global citizens.
